The next in a summer series of lectures will be a special celebration of the French settlers of our area in honor of Bastille Day. The talk called “The Mysterious Mr. Muller and His Hill,” is by the life of Louis Anthony Muller and all those that fled France and settled here in our area, will be free and open to the public.

The talk is scheduled for Wednesday, July 18th, at 7 PM at the historic Old Auction Barn on Route 26 in Eaton. Brought to you by Friends of the Old Town of Eaton Museum, noted historian Back Street Mary, will unravel the mystery of the French Muller who came to America with a trunk of gold and became a hermit in the Town of Georgetown. Was he Louis the X in hiding, or was he just a hated member of the French ruling segment that fled the guillotine in the Reign of Terror? French foods and goodies will be on hand before the talk with ice cream for your enjoyment at 6 PM to raise money for the Old Town of Eaton Museum. So come down, enjoy the summer evening on Main Street in Eaton and sit in the history of the area’s settlement. Rain Date Thursday, July 19th.

Hi, Neighbor Pennysaver, Canazevia, NY, July 16, 2018 -7-
Hank slowly turned around until his heels were toward the others. Then he said stubbornly:

―I am not mistaken in my statement, nor will I admit there can be a sweeter girl alive than Betsy Bobbin. If you want to fight, come on— I'm ready for you.

While they hesitated, crying Hank's heels doubtfully, a merry peal of laughter startled the animals and turning their heads they beheld three lovely girls standing just within the Ritchy carved entrance to the stable. In the center was Ozma, her arms encircling the waists of Dorothy and Betsy, who stood on either side of her. Ozma was nearly half a head taller than the two other girls, who were almost of one size. Unobserved, they had listened to the talk of the animals, which was a very strange experience indeed to little Betsy Bobbin.

―You foolish beasts!‖ exclaimed the Ruler of Oz, in a gentle but chiding tone of voice. "Why should you fight to defend us, who are all three loving friends and in no sense rivals? Answer me!‖ she continued, as they bowed their heads sheepishly.

"I have it right to express my opinion,‖ His Highness,‖ pleaded the Lion.

―And so have the others,‖ replied Ozma. "I am glad you and Dorothy have fought for Dorothy, but for the way you have been our friend and companion. Also I am pleased that my Sawhorse loves me best, for together we have endured both joy and sorrow. Hank has proved his faith and loyalty by defending his own little mistress; and so you are all in one right way, but wrong in another.

Our Land of Oz is a Land of Love, and here friendship outranks every other quality. Unless you can all be friends, you cannot retain our love."

They accepted this rebuke very meekly.

―All right,‖ said the Sawhorse, quite cheerfully; "shake hoofs, friend Mule.

―And so you are all wrong!‖ asserted the Sawhorse in a voice of scorn. "So will I! snarled the Tiger, showing two rows of enormous white teeth.

―This is as it should be," said Ozma, highly pleased to see them so fully reconciled. Then she turned to her companions: "Come, my dears, let us resume our walk."

As they turned away Betsy said wonderingly:

―Do all the animals in Oz talk as we do?"

―Almost all," answered Dorothy. "There's a Yellow Hen here, and she can, and she talks, and her chickens, and there's a Pink Kitten upstairs in my room who talks very nicely; but I've a little furry black dog, named Toto, who has been with me for a long time. He never said a single word but "Bow-wow!"

―Do you know why?‖ asked Ozma.
